TIME LIMIT FOR CONSTRUCTION

Permits are valid for two years and construction must commence in that time period. There is no penalty for a failure to begin a permitted project; however you must obtain a new permit to begin construction after the expiration of the two-year time limit.

STRUCTURES NOT REQUIRING PERMITS

Small accessory structures that are: not permanently anchored to the ground or not on a permanent foundation; and are thirty-two square feet or less in area; and are five feet or less in height, do not require zoning permits. Inflatable pools requiring no additional supports or framing do not require zoning permits; however any permanent decking that may be constructed does require zoning permits. Fences six feet in height or less that meet front yard setback requirements are exempt from permitting.
